BHARTIYA GYAN PARAMPARA MEIN VIGYAN

Bhartiya science tradition is one of the oldest scientific traditions in the world. Science originated in Bharat 3000 years before Common Era. Our Epics Ramayan and Mahabharat are great testimonials of scientific Developments. The evidence of the Sindhu Saraswati Civilization obtained from the excavations of Harappa, Mohenjodaro, Dholavira and Rakhigarhi etc. shows the scientific attitude of the inhabitants and the use of scientific instruments. The tradition of science in Bharat developed further with the Aryans. The Vedas, Brahmanas, Aranyakas, Upanishads and Puranas throw lights on scientific discourses and ideas. In this period, science made a lot of progress in the fields of mathematics, astrology, chemistry, astronomy, medicine, metals etc. Meanwhile, a long tradition of scientists developed from Charaka, Sushruta, Nagarjuna, Kanad, Aryabhata, Varahamihira, Brahmagupta, Bodhayana and others.
